
INTERDISCIPLINARY TEACHING OF SOCIAL SCIENCES IN LAW SCHOOL - A CASE STUDY OF INDIA

Interdisciplinary Learning and Teaching Conference 2023
20th April, 2023

Pratiksha Ashok
UCLouvain, PhD Researcher
pratiksha.ashok@uclouvain.be

Learning law is like making and eating food!

OVERVIEW

High School to Law School

Law Schools In India

PhD Programmes

Jack of all trades, master of none.....

but oftentimes better than a master of one

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

- Case study

- A deep dive into legal education in India
- Why India?
 - Ancient, Colonisation, Modern
 - An India of the past, in the present, of the future.

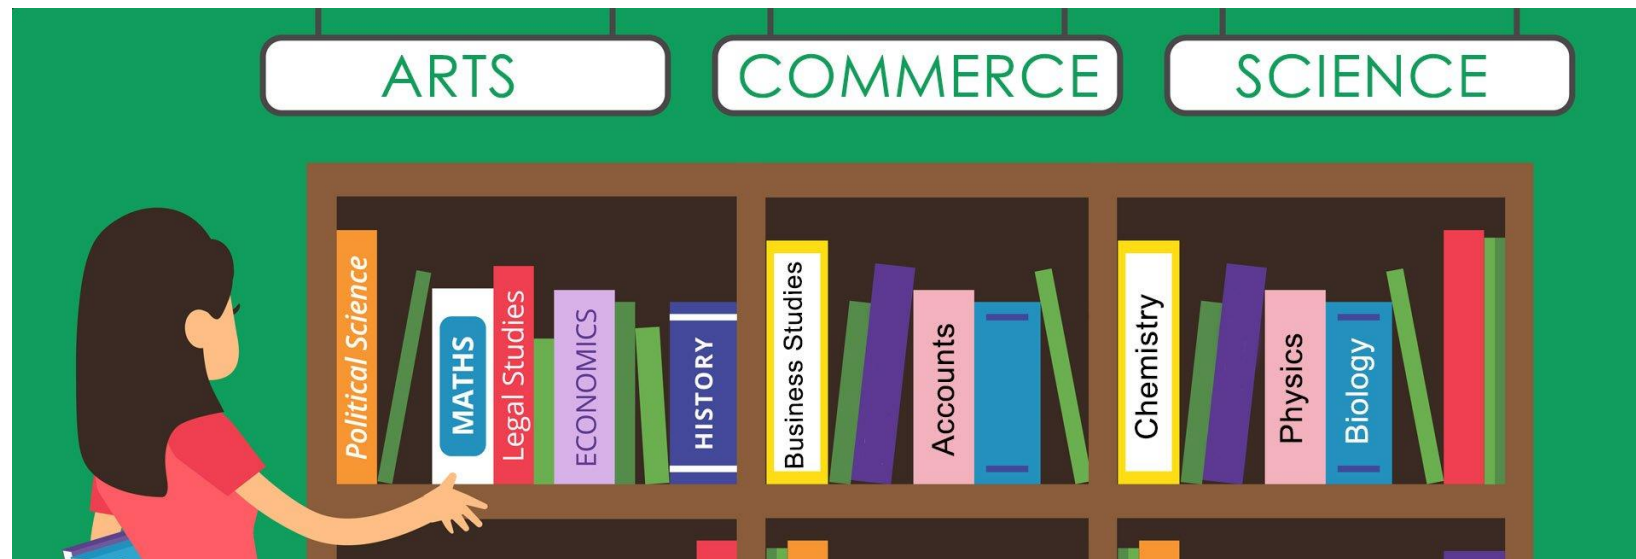

HIGH SCHOOL TO LAW SCHOOL

Education System in India

High School- Science, Commerce, Humanities

These are very mainstream! Stuck in watertight compartments

LAW SCHOOL IN INDIA

Constructivist Paradigm- Jeremy Bentham from 1800s
Jurisprudence
Law as an art and a science

Post colonial/ Modern India
184th Report on The Legal Education & Professional Training
The Advocates Act, 1961

The 184th Law Commission Report is an important starting point that sets the pace for engaging with interdisciplinary research in legal education, which elaborates and stresses the need for competence and social responsibility, invariably demanding the engagement of law with interdisciplinary teaching, research and extension.

LAW SCHOOL AND PHD

- Importance for lawyers to have interdisciplinary training?
- {Bachelor of Arts
- Bachelor of Commerce
- Bachelor of Science
- Bachelor of Technology
- Bachelor of Business Administration} and Law

MY CURRENT JOB!

Current Research Project

Current Issues

Gun Control, Abortion, Climate Change, LGBTQ Rights, Rights of women
Insufficient and inadequate

Figure 1. Competences of the PROSEco research team

QUESTIONS AND FURTHER INTERACTIONS!

- <https://www.linkedin.com/in/pratiksha-ashok-65b45567/>
- https://twitter.com/Pratiksha_Ashok

- pratiksha.ashok@uclouvain.be

